OMINOUS YELLOW FLAGS.

THEY TELL A TRAGIC TALE IN EVERY STREET OF JACKSONVILLE.

The fever becomes hourly more virulent, and the City's population is decreed as the only means of relief—Niles DeLaney, Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 31.—One hundred and eighty-eight cases of yellow fever are already reported, and the ships showing the results of the doctors on their rounds are not all in yet.

Twenty-six deaths were reported up to last night. The yellow flag is out at almost every house, the streets are deserted, business is at a standstill and the hand of every man is against Jacksonville.

The situation is terrible beyond description. The fever seems to have become more virulent in type, and once it gets into a family it seizes upon each member. The death of Lafayette Dancy, Internal Revenue agent, was a fearful sudden one and set panic in many a heart. Dancy visited his office Tuesday evening. Alone there he was attacked by the fever. He remained there helpless till morning, when it was too late for help, and he died that night.

Dr. Maxwell protests against the yellow flag, as tending to frighten people, helping no one.

The State Board of Health of Mississippi has issued an order denying admission across the borders of the State to any person not holding a certificate that he has not been exposed to yellow fever, and the United States health authorities have issued an order forbidding the Savannah, Florida and Western Railway to take passengers from Jacksonville to any point.

Meanwhile the experts say that the depopulation of Jacksonville will relieve the city, and the association has passed a resolution asking that as many families as can get away leave the city at once.

In response to this 150 persons left yesterday and more than that number are moving to-day. At least 2,000 people will have left by tomorrow night. They go to Camp Perry, where they are quarantined for ten days, after which they will be at liberty.

Dr. Wise, who had much experience during the Memphis scourge, joined the camp to-day and will have charge of the service.

Meantime those who are unable to leave Jacksonville will be made as comfortable as possible and the danger will be reduced to a minimum by segregating the people not already sick in small wooden houses.

Judge Loton M. Jones has aided in the work of depopulation by sending thirty-two prisoners confined in the county jail. They will be attached to the chain gang to work on country roads.

Miss Delaney, of Bellevue Hospital, New York, has offered her services as nurse to the stricken ones, and Dr. Solace Mitchell has telegraphed his grateful acceptance of her offer. She will take charge of the nursing staff at Santa Filles Hospital.

Thieves marauded several houses last night, and in two instances got warm reception from the colored people left in charge of the houses.

The colored people are very indignant at published statements that they were disorderly during the panic.

At a meeting of the Colored Auxiliary these stories were denied. There are fifteen or twenty thousand colored people in Jacksonville.

The authorities at Tallahassee have issued a proclamation declaring that the stories of fever at Fernandina, Monticello and Quincy are not true, and that the scourge is confined to Jacksonville, Manatee and Saint City.

And this comes in the face of the bulletin sent by Dr. Dumont at Fernandina stating that there were thirty-four new cases and four deaths there.

All Florida will be on the move in another week if the fever is not checked.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
ROCKY HILL, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Jay Gould has arrived here in his special car Atlanta from Hartford and expresses his intention of staying here until Monday. Dr. Mann, his physician, accompanies him.

Mr. Gould appears to be in fairly good health, though he is very thin and stoops painfully. He was in high glee upon his arrival over his luck as a fisherman near Arkville. He fished in the lake there and caught seven pounds of trout. After that he took a sixteen-mile ride over a rough road and got up a good appetite for some of the trout which were cooked for him.

Mr. Gould's birthplace is but four miles from here, and he stopped there on his way hither.

Struck to Uphold Their Delicacy.
Fifty street-builders and wood-workers quit work today in Actery & Gerard's moulding mills at Hunter's Point as the order of Walking-Garrett Garry.

Charles Gerard, of the firm, would not allow the strike to enter his mill, and Garry forthwith ordered the strike. The firm threaten to hire non-union men and work ten hours.

Saved from Drowning.
Charles McKinley, a New Yorker, eighteen years old, summing at Strat Oak, Westchester County, started to swim three miles on a wager at Lake Monogah. He was seized with cramps and was pulled out of the water by a friend after sinking twice.

New Aqueduct Pleasants.
Isaac Cohen, a pack peddler, was assaulted and robbed of his tinware by five negroes employed on the new aqueduct.

Two Italians in shaft 7 quarrelled, and one was seriously stabbed.
